San Diegans Make Record Trip In Canoe

Left Seattle May 16 and Arrived in Wrangell July 1

Last Tuesday morning Messrs. Simpson and Clark arrived at this city and thereby completed three-fourths of the trip they are making from Seattle to Skagway in a canvas canoe.

The two young adventurers, who hail from San Diego, California, left Seattle on May 16th, crossed Juan De Fuca Strait and spent two days at Victoria. Continuing north, Vancouver was reached on the 25th of May, where a three day visit was sufficient to show that the city was American in every essential.

After leaving Vancouver the canoeists were out of touch with civilization for over a month. Arriving at Seymour Narrows at slack water, the young men waited for the swift-flowing flood tide to carry them through the Narrows at high speed, but the waters ran with the sluggishness of a millpond and there was nothing exciting about it. Likewise the tiderips encountered have been loud-voiced but easily conquered and the canoe has not shipped over a pint of water in any day's run even in the rough seas that now and then arose.

Queen Charlotte Sound between Capes Caution and Calvert gave a sample of what it could do during a southeaster and this was the one time during the trip up that the Californians thought their little craft would never reach the shore. Seas swept her from end to end and her safe passage was only due to the specially designed cover which is laced over the boat and which contains two openings in which the paddlers sit and ceaselessly propel the boat for ten, twelve and sometimes fourteen hours without a pause. This tortoise-like progress gives an unequalled opportunity to study every inch of the shoreline, and these two men think that by the time they reach Skagway they will have a far better idea of the character of Washington, British Columbia and Alaska woods and waters than certain word artists that make a two-weeks trip on an excursion steamer and write a book containing descriptions of scenery, Indians etc. as seen and described by the officers of the ship and others.

Prince Rupert was reached on June 20 and found to be a lively little town of about five thousand inhabitants, all living for and looking forward to the day when the railroad links their city with the east. Perhaps the San Diegans saw Prince Rupert in a rosy light for Good Fortune directed them to a hash house where a genius in the kitchen produced mince pie and hot cakes that ought to land him in a life position in the King's culinary department.

Marshal of the day, W. D. Grant.

Ketchikan was the next stop and the one-day layover was marred by rain which commenced on the 27th and continued until the canoeists reached Wrangell.

Several days will be spent here as the travelers want to see how the Glorious Fourth is celebrated in the Car North, and next week the cruisers will again head north on the final lap of approximately 228 miles including stops at LaConte Glacier and Juneau.

The boat being used on this unique trip is an Indian model canoe with a waterproof canvas cover which gives the whole the appearance of an Eskimo Kyak.

The canoe, with men and equipment aboard weighs about six hundred pounds. The weight causes it to settle in the water and makes it stable in a seaway.

Simpson has made a specialty of rowing and now holds the title of champion single oarsman of southern California. Both men were on the schooner Lurline in the Trans Pacific Race to Honolulu last year and it was on the voyage back to the Coast that they conceived the plan of the present trip.

Clark is combining a little business with a great deal of pleasure by being special correspondent for the Pacific Motor Boat in which his narrative of their trip will soon appear illustrated with numerous Kodak pictures.

Clark and Simpson hope they will not be overlooked by the committee when the pie-eating contest is pulled off on the Fourth for they feel that their husky appetites can enable them to capture the prize.

The Port Simpson came into port this morning at 11 o'clock.

Resignation Accepted

Washington, June 25-President Wilson today telegraphed his acceptance of the resignation of John L. McNab. In doing so he completely exonerated Attorney General James C. McReynolds from the charges made by McNab, who in his resignation characterized the action of the Attorney General in providing for the postponement of the charges in the Dugas-Cameron and Western Fuel cases of injustice and wrongdoing. The President, in accepting the McNab resignation, said that this act of the District Attorney was inexcusable.

The Cabinet yesterday considered the McNab-McReynolds affair that has developed from the postponement of the San Francisco and cases. At the close of the meeting the Attorney General announced that the President would make a statement.

To Be Expected

If Congressman Humphries can prove the charges which he made in the House on the 1st inst., that Clifford Plafie, while connected with the Alaska Pacific Railway and while in the employ of the government, had the opinion that Alaska has held of him for a number of years will be fully justified. -Cordova Times.

Annual Potlach

The Seattle Carnival Association has sent out invitations to the annual Potlach to be given in Seattle July 16 to 19 inclusive. An elaborate program has been arranged for each day and on Wednesday evening, July 16th, a magnificent electrical display will be given. This is a week eagerly looked forward to by those who have participated in former years.

Submarine Divers In Wrangell

Henry Finch and son, the submarine divers, of Seattle, who have been making a survey of the wrecked steamer Curacao, arrived in Wrangell Wednesday morning on the Uncle Dan en route to Seattle. The Uncle Dan will take them as far as Ketchikan where they will take a southbound boat for the Sound.

Six Indians were arrested for drunkenness this week and the Commissioner assessed them various sums according to the gravity of the case. A Mexican, who gave them the liquor, was held to the Grand Jury in the sum of $600.00.

Mike Gregoroff forfeited his liberty for July 4th by getting drunk and becoming disorderly, for which Judge Thomas gave him several days in which to meditate over the error of his ways.

Miss Lynn Worden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Worden, is making the round trip on the Alaskan and will be at home again on the return of that vessel.

Miss Liberty Worden will be nine years old on July 4th and will celebrate the event this evening by giving a party to which her many young friends have received invitations.

The Princess May had 115 of the passengers of the Dolphin, which went on the rocks at Alert Bay on Saturday last. They were destined for Wrangell, Douglas, Juneau and Skagway.

Miss Crafts, who has been at the Garnet Ledge for several weeks, left on the Jefferson for California, where she will visit with friends before returning to Minneapolis.

Young man would like position as Clerk in any business. Excellent references and long experience. Apply Geo. Lohse, Room 4, Hotel Wrangell.

At the Wreck of the Curacao

Capt. Genereux of Seattle, passed through Wrangell Wednesday on his way to Seattle, to report on the wreck of the steamer Curacao to the underwriters of San Francisco. The Captain has been at the scene of the wreck for several days past and will make a report as to the probability of saving the vessel. He was a passenger on the Uncle Dan, which was chartered to take him to Ketchikan.

Has Charge of Party of Tourists

Mrs. A. H. Carlisle, who is well known in Southeastern Alaska, is in charge of a party of tourists on the City of Seattle which will arrive in Wrangell on Saturday. The tourists after visiting different places of interest in southeastern Alaska, will take the White Pass route for Dawson after reaching Skagway and after taking in the sights at that famous mining camp will return to Skagway and take passage on one of the Pacific Coast boats for Seattle. While in Wrangell the party will visit Chief Shakes' home, which is one of the interesting features of a trip to this place.

Capt. Wm. Thomson In Wrangell

Capt. Wm. Thomson, who was in command of the Pacific Coast steamer Curacao when she was wrecked on the west coast recently, passed through Wrangell Wednesday en route to Seattle. Capt. Thomson has been in the employ of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co. for a great number of years and this was his first accident of any account, and he was in no way to blame in this case as the ship struck an uncharted rock and the accident was unavoidable.

National Forest Timber For Sale

Sealed bids will be received by the Forest Supervisor, Ketchikan, Alaska, up to and including July 14, 1913 for 2,000,000 feet B. M. more or less, of Sitka spruce and Western hemlock saw-timber upon a designated area on the northeast shore of Vank's Island, Tongass National Forest, Alaska. No bid of less than $1.00 per M. feet for saw-timber will be considered. Deposit with bid $200. The right to reject any and all bids reserved. Before bids are submitted for information concerning the timber, the conditions of sale, and the submission of bids should be obtained from the Forest Supervisor, Ketchikan, Alaska.

Makes Special Trip to Ketchikan

The Uncle Dan, the west coast mail boat, arrived in Wrangell on Wednesday morning with a number of passengers from the wreck of the steamer Curacao, among whom was Capt. Wm. Thompson, master of the Curacao. Capt. Genereux, a representative of the Underwriters of San Francisco, and Capt. Henry Finch and son, the submarine divers who have been making a survey of the submerged vessel.

On reaching Wrangell several passengers were taken on board who were going to Ketchikan.

Princess May as Relief Ship

The Princess May brought 115 of the passengers of the steamer Dolphin, which went on the rocks in Alert Bay on Saturday last.

At the Episcopal Church

A Prophet from the Field of Romance illustrated by the Life of Tennyson, will be the theme at St. Philip's church Sunday evening, July 6. This will be followed by another lecture July 13, entitled "A Prophet from the Field of Adventure, illustrated by the Life of Sir Walter Scott." All are cordially invited.

Hands Up! "You say you were held up this morning by a footpad with a revolver. At what time?" "Five minutes to 1." "How can you fix the time so precisely?" "Because I could see the church clock, and I noticed that its hands were exactly in the same position as my own."—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

He Needed Proof. It was after 10 o'clock at night, and the jury had just been discharged. A stout jurymen came over to the reporters' table. He had a worried look.

"You are an Evening News man, aren't you?" "Yes." "Are you going to report this case?" "Yes." "For tomorrow's paper?" "Yes."

"Would you mind putting in a line saying that the jury was out until 10 o'clock?" "I'll mention it, if you wish." "I certainly hope you will. You have no idea how much I want you to. You're a young man and probably you're not married yet, but some day you'll have a wife, and then you'll understand."—Newark News.

She Said It. A visitor of noble birth was expected to arrive at a large country house in the north of England, and the daughters of the house, aged seven, were receiving final instructions from her mother. "And now, dear," she said, "when the duke shakes to you do not forget always to say 'your grace.'" Presently the great man arrived, and after greeting his host and hostess he said to the child, "Well, my dear, and what is your name?" Judge of his surprise when the little girl solemnly bowed her eyes and with clasped hands exclaimed, "For what we are about to receive may we be truly thankful, amen."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Hospitality. A tourist who had been caught in a severe storm up in the highlands complained bitterly, after finding a solitary cottage, on being asked to stay overnight. After dinner, while wearing a suit of the gold man's clothes till his own were dry, he met the mistress of the house with a broom in her hand, and she, mistaking the stranger for her husband, gave him a thump on the head with the broom, remarking, "That's for asking the man to stay at night!"—London Weekly Telegraph.

Stone In the Heart. A Greek woman employed in the American hospital in Caesarea, Turkey, was stirred by a revival. She straightway asked leave to visit a woman whom she had injured and to whom she had not spoken for ten years. When she trudged through the snow three or four miles to ask her "enemy's" forgiveness her relatives were sure she had gone daft, but the next day when she came back to the hospital she said, "We made peace, and the stone in my heart is gone."

His Choice.
Oh, Helen's eyes are velvet black,
Her brow is like the snow,
And wonderful embroideries
Beneath her fingers grow.
But Milly makes the lightest bread
A man could wish to eat
And biscuits white as powder puffs
And muffins hard to beat.
And Helen paints divinely too.
Her water color scenes
Are perfect in their tender tints
Of restful grays and greens
And glowing pinks and silver blues.
But Milly has no match
With thread and needle when it comes
To putting in a patch.
Although I linger near entranced
When Helen sings and plays,
And, though enraptured when we meet
Upon her charms I gaze
And often in her dainty ear
I whisper speeches silly,
Yet Milly makes delicious pie,
So I'll propose to Milly.

For Golfers.
Mrs. R. H. Barlow, the eastern golf champion, was being congratulated at the Stockton baths on breaking the record at the Cape May Golf club. Mrs. Barlow, apropos of low scores, told her interlocutor a story about a wretched player.
"He was a swaggering sort of chap," she said, "for all his wretched play. One day he was describing a medal competition he'd taken part in.
"Do you know," he said, "I did the first hole in eleven, the second in fourteen, the third in twelve—and then, hang the luck, I went all to pieces."—Exchange.

Advice to the Fat.
Sleep but little, never eat
Anything that's fat or sweet;
Shun tobacco, alcohol;
Eat potatoes not at all.
Beans, rice puddings, pies, abhor;
Never pass your plate for more.
With your meals no water take.
Walk until your muscles ache;
Exercise an awful lot.
Especially if the weather's hot.
Hungry always leave the table;
Eat as little as you're able.
If you're really faint for food
Unbuttered toast is very good.
Or if that does not suffice
Two or three stewed prunes are nice.
Milk and cream you must taboo,
Sugar in your coffee, too.
Try this plan two months or three
And I'll give you guarantee.
The advice I give is true,
And you'll lose a pound or two.

APPOINTS LOCAL MEN ON BOARD

Last Tuesday Gov. Strong announced his appointees to fill the offices on the newly created Medical, Dental, and Pharmacy boards. The Medical board is for the purpose of examining all those practicing medicine and all applicants who shall desire to do so in the future. The Board for the First Judicial District consists of Dr. H. C. DeVighe of Juneau, and Dr. J. L. Myers, of Ketchikan. The Board of Pharmacy is to serve for a term of four years and in this District consists of Wm. Britt of Juneau and Floyd E. Ryan of Ketchikan. Dr. W. E. Zuber was appointed a member of the board of dental examiners to serve for a term of three years. This places a local man on each of the three examining boards.

20,000 Druggists throughout the United States contribute to and approve of the formulas from which the A. D. S.
Remedies are prepared. They are not "Patents." We know and approve of their ingredients—that's one of the reasons we can recommend them before all others.

Moscow.

Moscow is one of the most famous cities in Europe. Exactly 100 years before Napoleon's raid Moscow yielded up to Petersburg—the modern addition
"Saint" was unknown to its founder, Peter the Great—the position of capital of the Russian empire, but its geographical situation has enabled it to remain the premier commercial and industrial city. The heart of Moscow is the Kremlin, where the czars are crowned and where may be seen the 875 cannon which Napoleon took to the city and left behind him when forced to retreat with the remnant of his great army. Moscow is 400 miles southeast of Petersburg, with which it is connected by a railway line almost as straight as the crow flies. When Nicholas I. decided the line should be built he drew a straight line on the map between the two cities, and engineers overcame almost incredible difficulties to keep the railway to the route indicated.

Once Upon a Time in France.

There was a time in France when a foolish, glib, who was ambitious enough to want a decoration and so ill advised as to make application for it to one of the ministers was punished by imprisonment. It was during the reign of Louis XV., and the first gentlemen in waiting of his majesty wrote this to the governor of the Fort l'Évêque prison:

Dear Sir—Having been informed that Mlle. Clifton has had the insolence and has been mad enough to solicit one of the king's decorations, to which neither she nor her mother is entitled, I write you this letter in the name of the king.
You are to lock her up in your good prison of le Fort l'Évêque and make things sufferently uncomfortable for her to teach her a lesson. Every evening, however, one of your men will have to conduct her to the Conciergerie in order that the public shall not be deprived of the pleasure of applauding the talent of this indiscreet woman.

Maybe He Had None.

Rex Beach was at the dress rehearsal of one of his plays, and he was there to see that everything was done exactly right. In one scene a member of the cast failed to pull down his cuffs as was stipulated in the stage directions. "Wait one minute!" exclaimed Beach, brandishing a stick, and he stepped out to the middle of the stage and interpreting the rehearsal
al. "Wait right where you are! Haven't I told you to pull down your cuffs?
Doesn't the book tell you to pull down your cuffs?"

"Yes, sir," said the actor.
"Well, you haven't done it," objected
the playwright. "Pull them down!
Down, down, down! Every gentleman pulls his cuffs down."
"I fear," said the actor coolly, "you go too much on hearsay."

Sunday as It Used to Be in London.

Those who object to Sunday amusements sometimes speak as though in bygone times our countrymen were exemplary in their observance of the Sabbath. In 1895, however, a chronicler, quoted by Mr. Nevill in "The Merry Past," estimated that over 200,000 Londoners spent their Sundays in the fairs and tea gardens round the metropolis, and the condition of these pleasure seekers at nightfall he calculated to be as follows: Sober, 50,000; in high glee, 50,000; drunkish, 30,000; staggering tipsy, 10,000; muzzy, 15,000; dead drunk, 5,000.—London Spectator.

A Dandy Duke.

The Duke of Buckingham took twenty-seven suits of clothes to Paris in 1825, one of white uncut velvet set all over with diamonds, worth 14,000.
He also wore a diamonded feather and diamond buttons and earrings. A cus-dom fashion for men prevailed in 1812 of ornamenting the ear with strings of black velvet ribbon, also of placing a rose behind the ear.—London
Saturday Review.

The Name Servia.

The Serbs have a grievance against the English language for spelling the name of their country, Servia, with a
"v," as though it came from "servus," a slave. There is really no such connection, and in other languages it is spelled properly, with a "b"—Springfield Republican.

Becoming Oblivious.

Mrs. Chat—i don't believe you've heard a word I've been saying for the last half hour, John! Chat—No, my dear, I've been cultivating absence of mind.—Judge.

He Didn't.

Instructor—Did you filter this? Youth (with a sly smile)—No, I was afraid it wouldn't stand the strain.—Harvard Lampoon.

Live with the wolves, and you will learn to howl.—Spanish Proverb.

Servian Women.

There is no country in the world where women occupy a more dignified or honored position in the home than Servia. The Servian idea is quite different from that of the Turk, who keeps his women behind shut doors, or the German, whose ideal woman is a good hausfrau. In Servia the woman is the companion of the man. A man is responsible for his unmarried sisters, and throughout the Balkan states it is considered rather a breach of etiquette for him to marry before his older sister. No Servian girl would feel she could hold up her head in society unless she could speak four languages.
There is hardly a Servian woman who cannot play some musical instrument.
Embroidery, painting, drawing and sculpture are all studied. Politics is a popular feature among women. Servian women are very domesticated, and the highest ladies pay personal attention to trivial matters of housekeeping.
—London Tit-Bits.

When the Worm Turns.

"But the point is, my dear sir," the father asked in pompous tones, "can you support my girl in the style to which she has been accustomed?"

"I'm afraid not."

"Then what the—"

The young man waived the remark aside.

"She has assured me, however," he added, "that she will not expect me to buy so many gloves as I have been providing or to take her away from home whenever she wants anything good to eat. Nor does she expect to ride in a taxi, as we have always done, when a tram will do. In short, we are going to live quite sensibly,
and—"

"Oh, all right!" growled the father.
"If you are going to be mean about the business take her!"

Gladstone on the Balkans.

The traditional opposition of Balgaria to Turkey constituted, according to Mr. Gladstone, one of the chief factors of European progress. Speaking of the Balkan peoples, he once said:

"They are like a shelving beach which restrains the ocean. That beach, it is true, is beaten by the waves; it is laid desolate; it produces nothing; it becomes perhaps nothing save a mass of shingle, of rock, of almost useless seaweed. But it is a fence behind which the cultivated earth can spread and escape the incoming tide, and such was the resistance of Bulgarians, of Servians and of Greeks. It was that resistance which left Europe to claim the enjoyment of her own religion and to develop her institutions and her laws."—London Chronicle.

Origin of the Cigarette.

The Aztecs, it is believed, are responsible for the cigarette. The Spaniards first got a whiff of the cigarette when they invaded Mexico under Cortes.
The Aztecs then used tobacco in no other form, and the Spaniards learned from them how to roll the little package into smokable shape. They introduced the cigarette into Europe, and by that route it found its way into America, though it was nearly 200 years reaching here. The Aztecs were also using cocoa and its product, chocolate, when Cortes conquered them, and it was not long until the whole of Europe was eating the various preparations of this bean. When the Spaniards first tasted it they named it theobromus, from the two Greek words meaning
"food of the gods."

Trousers.

Modern trousers came into fashion in 1812, yet the column of Trajan shows a group of Saracens clothed in trousers that are just like ours. As early as A. D. 63 a Roman general created great scandal by going to war in trousers, which were regarded as "barbarian."
When the Bulgarian King Boris was converted to Christianity in the seventh century, among the 100 questions he propounded to the pope was whether it was lawful for Christians to wear trousers. The explanation of this is that the Bulgarians had long been among the trousered peoples, but as conversion was coming from the flowing robes of Greeks they feared that robes instead of trousers might be essential to Christianity.

All About Stealing.

"Why do you call your story 'The Thieves' Romance?'"

"Because it is all about stealing."

"How?"

"Well, the story of the romance goes this way: 'She stole a look; then he stole a kiss. Next they had stolen meetings, they stole a march on their friends and both stole away.'"

"I suppose the next thing they will be stealing back."

It Couldn't Be.

Dean Farrar quotes Tennyson as having related to him the remark of a farmer who, after hearing a fire and brimstone sermon from an old style preacher, consoled his wife by saying:
"Never mind, Sully. That must be wrong. No constabulary couldn't stand it."

Cumulative.

"George has given me an engagement ring with three diamonds in it," said Henrietta.

"Yes, I know," said Marietta. "He always adds a diamond every time he gets engaged. It only had one when I wore it."—Harper's Weekly.

Showing Progress.

Minister—Young man, do you know how to dance? Young Man—Well, parson, I know the holds, but I don't know the steps.—Life

Wisdom and honor are the avenues to a happy immortality.—Pinto.
